

GODMOUTH
Episode 1: The Falcon and The Sparrow
By
Mallon Khan

Feb 2015

mallonkhan@gmail.com

EXT. WAREHOUSE/BROOKLYN NAVY YARD - NIGHT

In a quiet part of the city, a black limo pulls up to a rundown warehouse. JOE, a burly hired gun in his 30s, stands guard at the entrance.

A man in a black hooded cloak and white doll mask exits the car. He approaches Joe and extends his white-gloved hand bearing a bejeweled gold ring. Joe nods, opens the door for the guest, and follows him in as the limo drives off.

INT. WAREHOUSE - NIGHT

Two scantily-clad ladies greet the the masked man. He opens his cloak, unveiling his tuxedo underneath. The ladies happily escort him through a black curtain. Joe follows, nodding to the remaining guard who locks the front door.

INT. BLACK MASS - NIGHT

Ominous Latin chants echo through a large open space lit by dying fluorescent lights and a few burning braziers. Long black curtains hang from the rafters cordoning the event space from the rest of the dilapidated warehouse.

The guest joins dozens of other masked and opulently-dressed guests sitting in audience to a raised platform in the center of the event space.

On stage, two masked men in hooded red robes strap a writhing NUDE WOMAN to a round wooden table, to fit within the inverted pentagram carved into the tabletop. More red-robed men surround, chanting, led by a purple-robed PRIEST with an extravagant gold mask reading from a gilded tome.

Joe, uneasy, crosses the back of the room and enters the restroom in the far corner.

INT. BATHROOM - NIGHT

The room looks neglected. Joe sighs as he walks over to the urinal and unzips.

JOE
Come on, Joe. Just 2 more hours of this weird shit. Think of the money.

While he urinates, a black figure climbs in through the window behind him. Joe flushes and zips up. In the flush handle he sees an odd reflection, like a black owl on his shoulder. He turns. The intruder unsheathes a retractable baton and knocks Joe over the head before he can react.

(CONTINUED)

The intruder, THE BLACK SPARROW, a masked vigilante, looks like part-riot cop, part-cowboy, with a hint of gestapo. A goggled crash helmet peeks out from his high-collared leather moto jacket. A six-shooter hangs on his narrow hips. Armored pads and heavy boots look bulky on his thin frame.

Sparrow sheathes his baton and takes Joe's gun from the holster. He activates the radio in his helmet and speaks.

THE BLACK SPARROW
In position.

INT. HELICOPTER - NIGHT

NASSIR, the pilot, 30s, middle-eastern, checks his instruments and responds.

NASSIR
Confirmed. Package en route. ETA 90 seconds.

EXT. SKIES OVER BROOKLYN - NIGHT

A black helicopter carrying a large metal crate, breaks through the clouds and silently darts towards the river.

INT. BATHROOM - NIGHT

Sparrow dismantles Joe's gun in seconds and tosses the parts in the toilet. He cracks the bathroom door and peeks out. WHITE FALCON's gravelly voice crackles on his radio.

WHITE FALCON (V.O.)
Sparrow, did you double check the charges on the roof?

THE BLACK SPARROW
Triple-checked. They're good to go.

He pulls a radio detonator from a pack on his belt and fiddles with the controls.

WHITE FALCON (V.O.)
Is the front entrance secured?

THE BLACK SPARROW
(impatient)
Yes. The magnet's in place. They aren't going anywhere.

WHITE FALCON (V.O.)
OK. Good work. How many inside?

Sparrow peeks out of the bathroom door again.

(CONTINUED)

THE BLACK SPARROW
I counted 28. 4 armed. All in the North, like you said.

WHITE FALCON (V.O.)
Hmm... More than I expected.

NASSIR (V.O.)
60 seconds.

WHITE FALCON (V.O.)
Let us pray... The Lord is my strength and my shield. My heart trusts in him, and I am helped.

Sparrow joins Falcon in reciting the prayer. He extends the antenna on the detonator and peeks out again.

THE BLACK SPARROW
(whispering)
My heart leaps for joy and I will give thanks to him in song.

EXT. SKIES OVER BROOKLYN - NIGHT

The helicopter silently circles into position above the warehouse.

INT. HELICOPTER - NIGHT

Nassir, focused on his task, halfheartedly joins in.

NASSIR
The Lord is the strength of his people. A fortress of salvation for his anointed one.

INT. A DARK PLACE - NIGHT

A sweaty white-haired man, strapped into a cramped dark cockpit, says the last lines of the prayer.

WHITE FALCON
Save your people and bless your inheritance. Be their shepherd and carry them forever.

INT. BLACK MASS - NIGHT

The purple-robed priest steps forward and waves his arms, ending the chanting. He recites from his tome in a booming voice.

PRIEST

Sanctus Deus, Pater, ut accipias
tibi in formam caelestem.

He unsheathes an ornate dagger from his belt and holds it over the nude woman's chest.

PRIEST (CONT'D)

(loud)

Benedic, Domine, creaturam istam ignis, et sanctificabis, apud irit benedictus apud potestatem,

The priest cuts into her skin. Clearly drugged, she moans ecstatically. He makes another mark, and a swipe, forging a bleeding glyph on her chest. She howls.

PRIEST (CONT'D)

(louder)

Et virtutem, ita nec hostis nec phantasma, ut in eos introeamus-

An explosion interrupts the incantation. A blast of debris parts the curtains behind the proceedings and a cloud of dust engulfs the stage. Quickly following, a medal thud shakes the ground.

INT. BATHROOM - NIGHT

Joe is shaken awake by the rumble. He rises, searching the empty room. He notices his gun in the toilet and exits, determined.

INT. BLACK MASS - NIGHT

He enters to smoke and screams. Shell-shocked party guests stumble around, unsure of what is happening. Joe searches the crowd for the intruder.

INT. BLACK MASS RECEPTION AREA - NIGHT

Panicked guests and guards struggle to open the front door.

EXT. WAREHOUSE/BROOKLYN NAVY YARD - NIGHT

An electronic device on the front door keeps it locked.

INT. BLACK MASS - NIGHT

A PANICKED GUEST, yells out.

PANICKED GUEST
It's locked! We're trapped inside!

Joe overhears and scans the crowd. He sees Sparrow in the corner fiddling with a box on the wall. Joe arms himself with rusted pipe, and pushes passed guests in a bee-line towards Sparrow.

He halts when the lights suddenly go out, leaving only the glow from the braziers near the stage. Screams echo through the dark. Panic escalates. Sparrow, aided by his night vision goggles, swiftly weaves through the crowd towards the stage.

On stage, the purple priest motions at the nearby guards to inspect the area beyond the curtain.

INT. WAREHOUSE - NIGHT

In the center of the unused part of the warehouse, moonlight streams in through a fresh hole in the ceiling. Below it, dust is settling on the large metal crate sitting on a pile of rubble. Some guests are drawn to the light.

Three armed guards approach the box. One gets close, drawn in by a ticking sound. He presses his ear against the side. The ticking suddenly stops. There is a click and a pop. The top of the crate shoots up into the air. The guard stumbles back. The lid lands on him, knocking him out.

The box unfolds like a flower, unveiling it's budding contents, WHITE FALCON. The homemade powered suit is bulky and rough around the edges, with welding marks, patches and exposed wires. The occupant, completely concealed within the metal machine, peeks out from a small porthole in the front hatch.

The hulking mass rises from its crouching position. Built-in floodlights power on, blinding the onlookers. He raises his right arm, aiming the attached mini Gatling gun at the crowd. A voice comes from a speaker mounted on the machine.

WHITE FALCON
Attention. This is White Falcon.
You are engaged in an unlawful
(MORE)

(CONTINUED)

WHITE FALCON (cont'd)
gathering. The NYPD has been notified and are on their way.
Please remain calm and no one will get hurt.

The two remaining guards exchange an incredulous look before opening fire on Falcon. A volley of bullets ricochet off the machine. The shooters stop to change clips. Falcon's Gatling gun starts spinning. The gunmen are knocked off their feet and squirm on the floor nursing bleeding knees.

WHITE FALCON (CONT'D)
Anyone else?

Several masked guests raise their hands in surrender.

INT. BLACK MASS - NIGHT

The purple priest turns to run but Sparrow blocks his path. The hero hops on stage and wags a finger. The woman on the table moans something in German.

NUDE WOMAN
(weak)
Was ist da los?

Sparrow pulls a combat knife from his belt and cuts her free. She is terrified of him. She stumbles off the table and into the arms of the priest.

THE BLACK SPARROW
(to himself)
Sheesh, you're welcome.

The priest looks at something behind Sparrow. Sparrow spins around but not in time. Joe knocks him in the head with the pipe. The priest tosses the woman aside and leaps from the stage.

A few guests, hands in the air, march through the curtain followed by Falcon. He shines his light on the fleeing priest.

WHITE FALCON
Stop right there!

The purple priest runs into the bathroom. Falcon, crouches. There is a whirr and metallic snap. He is launched into the air.

INT. BATHROOM - NIGHT

The priest locks the door and backs away. The ground shakes. The door is suddenly ripped from it's hinges along with part of the wall. Falcon looks in, gun pointed. Before he can speak, Sparrow's voice crackles over the radio.

THE BLACK SPARROW (V.O.)
(weak)
Falcon... Help.

Falcon hesitates but leaves. The priest climbs out of the window.

INT. BLACK MASS - NIGHT

Sparrow, on his knees and dazed, goggle and helmet cracked, reaches for his six-shooter but Joe hits him hard on the arm. Sparrow cries out and stumbles off the stage.

JOE
Yeah. How you like it, bitch? Huh?

The night vision in Sparrow's helmet flickers out as he blindly searches for his gun. Joe kicks him in the stomach. He rolls onto his back. His vision returns in time to see Joe standing over him. Like a golfer, Joe swings back to serve a killing blow.

There is a flash followed by another loud thud. Joe's body goes limp and falls to the side. Sparrow sits up. Joe's severed head rolls by him. Falcon has landed nearby. A bit of blood drips from the retractable blade in his suit's left gauntlet before it retracts.

WHITE FALCON
You OK?

Sparrow stares at the severed head.

THE BLACK SPARROW
You... you killed him.

WHITE FALCON
Yes, I did.

THE BLACK SPARROW
But you said-

WHITE FALCON
I know what I said. I had to do it.
He was going to-

(CONTINUED)

THE BLACK SPARROW
Falcon, look!

Sparrow points at something behind Falcon. He spins and points his Gatling gun. A dense gray fog is filling the warehouse. A black shadow can be seen moving within.

WHITE FALCON
The police are on their way! Step forward with your hands in the air!

Falcon steps forward into the fog. Sparrow watches as he disappears from sight.

THE BLACK SPARROW
Falcon? What is it?

INT. FOG - NIGHT

Falcon stops and lowers his gun. A black-haired boy, 8 years old, with pale skin, is standing before him.

WHITE FALCON
It's just a boy!

The hatch on the Falcon suit rises up, unveiling it's occupant. He is in his 50s, strong but pale and covered in sweat.

WHITE FALCON (CONT'D)
It's OK. I'm not going to hurt you.

The boy looks up at him with innocent black eyes. Falcon extends a hand to him. Suddenly, an alarm goes off in his cockpit. He looks down at the dash, lights are flashing.

INT. BLACK MASS - NIGHT

Sparrow nursing a broken arm and cracked ribs, hobbles towards the fog.

THE BLACK SPARROW
Falcon? What's happening?

The fog spreads, rolling in around him and the terrified party guests nearby.

INT. FOG - NIGHT

WHITE FALCON

I don't know... I'm loosing power.

Falcon wipes a dark substance from the dash and studies his fingers. The substance seems alive, crawling. It seeps into the controls on the dash. The suit begins to power down. Falcon fanatically mashes buttons. He freezes when he notices the boy again. The child is shaking and convulsing unnaturally. His face contorts and morphs. The fog draws back in as if sucked away.

INT. WAREHOUSE - NIGHT

The boy grows, fed by the dark mist. He transforms into a large shadowy beast, a churning black cloud in the shape of a horned demon with red glowing eyes.

WHITE FALCON

Dear God.

Falcon falls back. The beast looms over him. Unable to unbuckle himself he instead reaches for a knob on his suit's frozen arm. A pilot light sparks on. He mashes a button and a plume of flames spew out. The flames miss and set the curtains ablaze.

Smoke is filling the space. Sparrow removes his helmet. He is a 15yr old African-American. Blood drips from a gash across his left eye. Terrified, he can only stare in disbelief at the drama unfolding before him.

The beast dives onto Falcon engulfing him like a black fire. He lets out a horrible scream. His body convulses as if being torn apart by a pack of dogs. Veins of blood grow inside the black monster. The beast, now a deep red, rises, unveiling the ravaged corpse of Falcon. The old man looks drained, like a bloodless cadaver covered in chemical burns. His mortified gaze is fixed on Sparrow.

Fire surrounds. Sparrow, shaking and crying turns his attention to the beast. It disperses into particles and reforms face-to-face with him. Sparrow, overwhelmed by fear and smoke, passes out.

CUT TO BLACK